And, finally, and most importantly, books written by the readers themselves. I won't list the titles of the books here. Every self-respecting author should have his own "golden collection" of books that he would recommend to his readers and which, in his opinion, must be read. In my "golden collection" - "50 books for self-education", which includes books written by the very best, that is, those who have written 100 books each.
